

GOVERNMENT IS OVERTHROWN IN PERU BY REBELS

LIMA, Peru, Feb. 4.—The Peruvian army mutinied today and joined the revolutionists, who have been besieging the city for several days. The government was overthrown within an hour after the soldiers mutinied by the capture of President Guillermo Billinghurst. The troops, led by Colonel Bermudez, attacked the palace, and after a short parley the president surrendered.

Sharp fighting took place about the palace before President Billinghurst yielded. General Enrique Varela, prime minister and head of the department of war and marine, received wounds from the rebels who died a short time later. The revolt was instigated by Dr. Augusto Durand, who had for several revolutions in Peru and whose arrest was ordered when the latest plot was revealed.

Dr. Durand had seized all the state papers and will form a new government. Fighting at the palace began shortly before dawn. Many of the palace guards remained loyal to Billinghurst and kept up the conflict until the president sent a message to the rebels offering to surrender if his life was guaranteed. Residents of the city were terrified by the sound of fighting and hundreds fled into the street. One man was killed in a clash near San Pedro church and several others were wounded. The city is being patrolled by the rebel troops, but all business houses have been closed. The revolt against Billinghurst was caused by his stand for the continuation of government expenses, including a reduction of the army and the cutting off of certain pensions that have gone to the officers. Dr. Durand, on the contrary, has always been an advocate of militarism. President Billinghurst was installed on September 15, 1912, to serve four years. Dr. Durand will proclaim himself president ad interim and will establish a military government.

RAMBLES OF A PHOTOGRAPHER

Lost in Jungle and Took Refuge in Aerial Tower Until Fought by Rescuers.

Many stories are told of the fearless feats of aviators, the daring drivers of automobile racing cars are credited with many wonderful performances; history is filled with the heroic accomplishments of intrepid soldiers on the field of battle; but the true story of the intrepid photographer has never been told. There are the fellows who fearlessly venture that have never been pictured. They seek the peaks of the earth or scale the dizzy heights of mountain peaks in order that the reading public may get a glimpse of these grandest scenes. The American is now presenting these pictures to his readers in the big book on Panama, an explained elsewhere in this issue. Hundreds of other pictures, in fact, which are being published, have been taken by photographers who have been subjected themselves to untold dangers, are shown in this wonderful volume.

BROKERS FIGHT AGAINST OPEN BILL ON MAILS

WASHINGTON, Feb. 4.—With Samuel Underhill, counsel for the Postal Union, fighting the bill, the Senate Committee on Banking and Currency today began hearings on the new bill to prohibit the sale of mail telegrams or telegrams for the purpose of "unlawful stock exchange transactions."

The bill, which calls for a sweeping reorganization of Wall Street methods, was opposed by a number of representatives of brokers.

Underhill, the chief witness in his advocacy of the bill, cited numerous court opinions and recommendations of Congress without requiring incorporation. To permit them to remain unincorporated, he said, would be to control in the hands of a few "speculators."

ANNUAL EFFORTS BEING PUSHED FOR CHURCH DAY

Men, women and children are working for Boston's great religious day on next Sunday. Daily meetings are being held in many churches with evangelistic services, preparing for the occasion.

Merchants are placing window signs in their stores, calling attention to the day. Many streets in the South and West Ends have been canvassed by the young people of the churches. Schools at recess have been visited and children asked where their parents go to church. If they do not go anywhere the name of the parent is registered upon a card and then passed to the visiting committee of the nearest church. Every class is being looked after. Automobiles have been offered to many churches to provide for the aged and infirm.

Mothers with their babies will be welcome everywhere. Don't stay home on account of the baby. Bring it to church and you will find people in the vestry of the churches who will look after the children while the mother and father are together, attending the church service.

At the First Presbyterian Church, Columbus avenue, extensive preparations are being carried out so that every one will be cared for. Roy MacLennan will have charges of light refreshments, coffee, tea and crackers, to be given to the aged and infirm upon arriving at the church.

Miss Cassie Mackay will have charge of the rest room for mothers. Miss Sadie Ferguson will attend to the milk for the children. Calvin McDonnell will care for the automobiles and may be found at No. 23 Barnmouth street. If anyone desires to have the use of an automobile for four hours on Sunday need notice to him.

Every church in this city has been engaged in distributing invitation cards to Church Day. South Boston churches are being looked after by the Rev. D. Harold Hickey of the Braham Memorial Methodist Church in Dorchester.

GOMPERS' DAUGHTER BREAKS ENGAGEMENT AND WON'T TELL WHY

Miss Sadie Gompers, daughter of the labor leader, who has broken her engagement to George B. Jewar.

Boston people were surprised today at word of the broken engagement of Sadie Gompers—daughter of President Samuel Gompers of the American Federation of Labor—and George B. Jewar, a Brooklyn lawyer.

Disputes from Washington give no explanation of the broken troth. Miss Gompers when questioned said: "I made the announcement for good and sufficient reasons. I decline to be questioned."

Mr. Jewar could not be located. Miss Gompers has many friends here. She has appeared in vaudeville and made her debut at Puller Theatre in Springfield in 1907. She sang three songs at that debut, to the chagrin of a big delegation of labor men who filled the floor and boxes.

Miss Gompers is exceedingly attractive in appearance, and her voice is said to be remarkably good.

THE SMILE THAT FASCINATES BRITISH NOBILITY. George Grossmith, the famous comedian of the Dainty Theatre, London, England, tells why so many noblemen pass by all wealth and title, beauty and position, and choose for their wives the pretty chorus girls who have smiled at them across the footlights.

SAVE TEEN NATION WIRE; 2 BADLY HURT

Fifteen persons—one a woman and four small-boys—were rescued by firemen and were downed by the fire. The fire broke out in a three-story brick building known as "The Block," on Avenue Street, North. Two men—James Leamey and John Arbuckle—were overcome by smoke and were carried to the Leonard Morse Hospital in Natick, where their condition was declared to be critical.

Mr. Joseph Barrow was also overcome by smoke, but through the prompt use of a policeman at the house of No. 12, Walnut street, the State Board of Health, who proved a hero in the fire, was quickly rescued. His condition was not serious.

Dr. Walcott was returning from a professional call when he saw smoke issuing from the building. He entered the smoke-filled building with the firemen, who had to mount ladders because of the fierce flames which raged on the ground floor.

In the building were Joseph Barrow, his wife, their twelve-year-old son, William, and a dozen lodgers, all of them men. On the third floor Dr. Walcott stumbled over the prostrate form of one Alphonse. He called Laddenden Conley, Conroy and Delman and the four carried the two smoke victims in the street, climbing down the ladders while a crowd cheered them from the street.

Dr. Walcott telephoned the Edison Electric Company's policeman at the Natick station, and the fire was quickly put out. The loss was $3,000. Of this $1,000 Dr. Walcott's company lost $1,000, and the Christy & Co. lost $1,000, and Albert Harris, a clothing salesman, $500.

Chief Darling of the fire department declared the fire due to spontaneous combustion. The flames started in the cellar and burned through the ground floor. The loss was $3,000. Of this $1,000 Dr. Walcott's company lost $1,000, and the Christy & Co. lost $1,000, and Albert Harris, a clothing salesman, $500.

HOW THE TEAMS LINE UP.
PILGRIM: ...
IRISH-AMERICAN: ...

The Pilgrim A. A. and the Irish-American A. A. will resume their hockey series tonight at the Arena, playing the third game.

The series at present is Pilgrim A. A. 12, Irish-American A. A. 11, and as the team scoring the largest number of points during the seven games will be declared the winner of the series, there is bound to be plenty of excitement at the Arena this evening.

As the series advances the rivalry between these teams grows keener and now that the Pilgrims are in the lead, the I. A. A. will go after their opponents with added vigor.

Both teams have been practicing hard for this contest. As the Pilgrim A. A. seven is practically picked, Captain Flynn has been checking his men on combination play and they have been very successful in this line of attack. The light forward line in the I. A. A. is also in good shape, but it is not so strong as the Pilgrim's, and it is to be expected that the followers of the game in this city.

C. W. Murphy to Sue
Tinker and Brown

In this article of the series which Ty Cobb is writing expressly for the Boston American the "greatest baseball player of all time" continues his discussion of "The Effect of Cobb on Big Leagues."

Many stories have come out about the fact I got into with the fan in New York. I want to tell for the first time over my signature the real inside facts of that event.

This same fellow had been bothering me on previous trips when the Detroit Club had been in New York, and I was forced to work hard to hold in my temper, but I had not been down in the ordinary ravings of the fan who told me to believe he was a ball player.

On the way in question, though, he was out and shouting remarks to me which could be heard all about the section of the bleachers where he sat each time I passed the stand in the way to the bench.

My temper began to get but I did not let it control me. I had heard the remarks aimed at my fan, and began to get angry.

"How can I hear what that man said?" I asked "Cobb" Crawford, after a while, he said the man was a fan, and he was not a ball player.

"I certainly did," replied "Cobb," "I would not let him get away from me, and I would not let him get away from me."

"Where did he tell you that you got into with the fan?" I asked.

"He told me that he was a fan, and he was not a ball player," I replied.

"I don't care," I said, "I will try to pass it up for a time and see if he won't quit," I answered.

Gave Abuse to "Fan"
A Chance to "Cool Off."

In order to give the abusive one a chance to forget about it, I purposely did not come to the bench when the Detroit Club went to the bat for the next inning. I had been one of the last fans in the previous inning, and it would not be my turn to come out on the other side of the railing until the next inning. I was in the middle of the railing when I was out there, and I was not a ball player.

"I don't care," I said, "I will try to pass it up for a time and see if he won't quit," I answered.

C. W. Murphy to Sue
Tinker and Brown

CHICAGO, Feb. 1.—President Charles W. Murphy of the Chicago Nationals, who last week announced that he would "go to law" over Ward Miller's decision to sue the Federal League, today he would include in his suit against Miller charges that the friends of the man I had attacked were preparing to "get me."

According to this information, his regular companions had had reputations, and these methods were recognized even having pictures in a well-known gallery. I was told to be on my guard the next time I returned to New York, and this warning came from no nationalist, but from a newspaper man who had been tipped off by a big league manager.

The threat worried me, as it probably would any other man. I remember that I was crowded up under a hat, and I took certain steps to protect myself when I was in New York, and did not walk in any dark streets alone.

"Fans" as a Class
Are Very Decent.

Only once did I believe a man was following me, and now I think this impression may have been due to no imagination. It was in the subway one night, and instead of retreating I showed my "shadow" that I was in New York, and did not walk in any dark streets alone.

Import Players Struck
When Cobb Was Suspended.

As soon as I got on the field the umpire told me I was out of the game, which had to do according to the rules of the league. He acted so suddenly about it. The Detroit players, who were in the bench and in front of the stand ready to help in case any one tried to lay a name on me. Since did. And the odd thing is that I have no recollection of the important part of the incident, that of beating up my abuser.

"I don't care," I said, "I will try to pass it up for a time and see if he won't quit," I answered.

Penn Has Winter Outdoor Ball Game

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 4.—The unusual spectacle of a baseball game in midwinter was seen at Franklin Field between two teams picked by Coach Ray Thomas. The game went the full nine innings and ended with the score tied, 2-2. Considering the time of the season and the condition of the field, the teams gave a splendid exhibition, making few errors and handling the ball quickly. Of the four pitchers that were tried out, Sayre showed by far the best form, not allowing a single hit in four innings. Hoskins started at bat, making a triple, a double and a single out of four times at bat.

Plan Skating Races at Franklin Field

A skating carnival will be held at Franklin Field tomorrow night, providing weather conditions are suitable. The event is being conducted by the Greater Boston Skating Association, and it is planned to hold races for boys and girls. The program will also include 25-yard dashes, figure skating, and a variety of other sports. The carnival is expected to draw a large crowd of spectators.

THE SMILE THAT FASCINATES BRITISH NOBILITY.

George Grosvenor, the famous comedian of the Gaiety Theatre, London, England, explains why so many noblemen pass by wealthy and titled houses of their own rank and choose for their wives the pretty chorus girls who have smiled at them across the footlights.

BELIEVE BAN ON KIVAT-HANNES WILL BE LIFTED.

Hannes Kolehmainen and Abel Kiviat, the two great long-distance runners of the Irish-American A. C. of New York, who are charged with having engaged in a "tail" race a week ago Saturday, will receive a hearing before the Metropolitan Association of the Irish-American A. C. on Monday night. It is reported that the hearing will be private, and that the two great athletes' champions will not be permitted to be represented by the attorney of the Irish-American club.

If Kolehmainen and Kiviat are placed in good standing again, they will compete in the Big B. A. indoor games, which will be held in Mechanics Building Saturday night. The Irish will start in the three-mile invitation, while Kiviat will go after the premier honors in the Hunter mile.

It is believed that the ban will be lifted on these two remarkable runners. The A. A. U. leaders may have some doubts as to the sincerity of Kiviat's repentance.

Boston Track lovers are eager to see Kolehmainen in action at the B. A. meet.
